

Respected Authors, Colleagues, and Friends,

Greetings from JOJS. We are happy to release about twenty-four articles across subspecialties of orthopedics in this issue of JOJS. After indexing with DOAJ, we are in the process of upscaling and better indexing. We are making efforts to improve the visibility of your valuable work in the international academic arena. Our process is transparent and kindly spread this message across your professional circle so that more articles across globe may be published in JOJS.

I take this opportunity to review the statistical aspects of your articles and make improvements, which will add value to your work. We are planning to help you in this regard, and details will be posted on the website soon.

Keep publishing to make your work immortal and benefit humanity.

Long live JOJS!

Prof A Suresh Kumar
Editor-in-Chief, JOJS

Dr TR Ashok
Associate Editor, JOJS